FLOWERSHOW HUGE SUCCESS

Beautiful Festival Object of Much Praise

Sierra Madre's Seventh Flower Show more than ever lived up to the reputation of the past. When the Grand Banded Saturday night the word "fair" was written on a record of beauty, excellence and comparative effort of which this city can be more than proud. The Sierra Madre Woman's Club, with the loyal support of the townspeople, have once again put over one of the big events of Southern California.

It is very difficult to specifically praise all the people deserving of praise because each chairman was assisted by many volunteers and in many cases workers helped with more than one section, and a list of the helpers would be the roll call of the town practically. The Flower Show Committee, in charge of the entire project, is Mr. W. W. Felgate, manager, who had entire charge of the tent and floral exhibit; Mrs. Milton Steinberger, assistant manager, who was chairman of the entertainment and advertising; Mrs. F. L. C. Roess, secretary, who had charge of the entries; the art booth; Mrs. F. P. Sperry, assistant secretary and Mrs. E. C. Neln, Treasurer.

The show was under the supervision of Mrs. Welsch and Mrs. Ingraham, with Mrs. W. E. Walker and Mrs. Palmer Rhodes as sub chiefs, and it was necessary to go behind the scenes to adequately grasp the immense amount of work magnificently handled by these ladies and their large corps of assistants. Well cooked and well served lunches and dinners all three days, handled with the minimum of friction and confusion in spite of the crowds, bore testimony to the efficiency of this department.

which functioned with the smoothness of a well drilled military machine. The first two days were exceedingly hot and the kitchen was anything but a pleasant place for hard work, but every one stayed on the job and serenity reigned never mind what the thermometer did. Ladies, you all deserve medals.

At the art booth, under the direction of Mrs. Roess and Miss Helen Sadler artistically decorated and fascinating flower pots of different sizes were on sale. They attracted much admiring attention and a considerable number were sold.

The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Robert Mitchell with the members of the Eleven and One Club as her able assistants. These young ladies have such a reputation for their delicious home made candies that it isn't necessary to add another word. You all know what their candies are like and the way they disappeared from the table is more eloquent than any mere words.

On the porch at the west of the Club House, two artistically decorated booths dispensed cut flowers and punch, presided over by Mrs. Louis Dietz and Miss Larjar respectively. The Misses Woodward made trays full of their wonderfully attractive French bouquets which were sold to the visitors by attractive little misses with beguiling tongues. Mesdames Woodson Jones, Baie and Howard superintended the sale of ice cream afternoons and evenings.

Mention was made last week of the wonderfully beautiful decorative scheme carried out by Mr. Frank Monroe Smith in the club building, but it was so unusual and aroused so much comment that it should be spoken of again. He and his assistants worked untiringly for hours and wagon loads of palms and flowers were utilized. He then very kindly assisted with the decorating of the tent where his artistic sense again achieved a fine result. Mr. Pruden and Miss Elizabeth Steinberger gave invaluable aid for days in Mr. Smith's department.

There was a delightful musical program in the auditorium Thursday and Friday afternoons, and the three act play "A Pair of Sixes" given Thursday night under the direction of Mrs. Milton Steinberger was as witty and clever as could be and was received with great delight. Some of the actors felt dissatisfied with their own work it seems, but they were the only dissatisfied ones. They created the play—one of them had never seen any of the parts presented, so their interpretation was absolutely their own and they have no cause to feel ashamed about any least part of it. Owing to arrangements made some time before, it was impossible for them to have the stage of the club for one evening rehearsal and they went on in their parts on practically strange ground. To any one who has taken part in a play, that speaks volumes. Their fine work under such difficulties proves once again that Sierra Madre has unusual dramatic talent concealed in our everyday citizens.

The concert Friday night was not so well attended as it should have been for the fine program presented, but it was an appreciative audience and one that gave evidence of thorough enjoyment. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hassler aroused enthusiastic applause with their duets. Mrs. Hassler, in particular, having a voice of exquisite quality and a most finished method, and little Miss Marion Smithson, violinist, star pupil of Prof. Seiling, showed wonderful promise. If that young lady follows a public musical career, we shall be paying fat sums to hear her play in the not so far distant future.

Coming to the flower show proper, the floral exhibits, it is hard to find words to properly describe them without wearing out some very necessary adjectives. Out of town visitors repeatedly stated that this show excelled any they had seen both for variety and beauty. Mr. Felgate is a master hand at arrangement of entries so as to get the best effect and he had persuaded some of his friends to send in very handsome professional exhibits. Bassett and Wahburn of this city had a large collection of rare and beautiful palms; P. V. Jannoch of Pasadena entered a remarkable collection of standard roses which were an outstanding beauty spot on the south end of the tent; Mr. Hetrich of the H. E. Huntington estate, entered an exquisite pink azalea; the Pasadena Flower Show sent in a wonderful vase of roses; Howard and Smith of Los Angeles had a beautiful entry of cut flowers and Julius Thielen of Pasadena had a bewildering array of cut garden flowers. The Ward Nursery had a very attractive display of cut and potted plants which attracted much comment from visitors as well as from townspeople.

The people of Sierra Madre entered the best of their blooms and the cumulative effect was wonderful. The weather was excessively hot which made the flowers wilt quickly Thursday afternoon, but in most cases fresh ones were substituted each morning, so the exhibit was fresh and beautiful for our visitors to look at to the last. Almost a hundred individuals entered flowers and in most cases made entries in several classes, so the number of flowers entered ran well up into the thousands. Mrs. F. L. C. Roess was chairman of entries and a number of volunteers assisted in this department and under the handicap of a blazing sun handled this volume of work so efficiently that not a single mistake has been found in the classifying and tagging of the entries. The prize committee, consisting of Mrs. E. C. Newton and Mrs. J. T. Mason, had a choice assortment of valuable and beautiful prizes for the winners in all the principal classes which were given out Thursday evening between the acts of the play, Mayor Mitchell presiding at this distribution in his own inimitable manner.

The judges were William Hetrich, Ernest Braunton and George Chandler.

The playlets put on by the school children Saturday afternoon deserve a volume all to themselves. The house was packed to the doors and a delighted and admiring audience kept up a continuous ripple of laughter and applause. The children in their fairy story parts and impersonating Mother Goose Rhymes won all hearts, and the teachers, who must have given unendingly of their time and patience to have achieved so fine results deserve the thanks of the whole community for giving us the opportunity of enjoying such a whimsically beautiful afternoon.

It was a most satisfactory thing to those in charge to have the wholehearted support of the citizens as they did have. Such an immense undertaking involves an almost unbelievable amount of work and it is inevitable that there shall be times of strain and rush when it seems as if it could not be carried through on time, but as each such crisis arose, somebody stepped into the breach and everybody pulled for the whole. In those last crowded days before the opening the solidarity of Sierra Madre was shown as never before with volunteers clearing away difficulties as fast as they arose. The Firemen's Club helped with the erecting of stands and general preparation of the tent, Marshall Udell loaned his truck, Milton Steinberger loaned his truck and managed somehow without two of his men for four days, loaning their services for that time. Mr. L. E. Steinberger worked from dawn to dark cutting greenery and hauling it to the grounds for decorating purposes. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lawless almost lived at the tent from Tuesday mornin' until the show opened. Mrs. Lawless with her knowledge of former shows giving invaluable aid in bringing order out of confusion, and Mrs. Jack Wright helped in similar ways. These are not all, by any means, but they illustrate the spirit which prevailed.

It was a great show and a most successful one. No financial report is yet available, but whether the amount cleared is large or small, it still remains most successful from the standpoint of beauty, enjoyment by everybody and achievement. Visitors who were not acquainted with the spirit of Sierra Madre were thunderstruck by the magnitude of the affair for a town of this size and it isn't surprising that it astonished them, for there are not many little towns where the people do the things the people of this town do and do well. It is the spirit of cooperation and the willingness to work for the general good that always has been and always will be so evident here, that gives Sierra Madre her unique position. Mrs. Sperry the president of the Woman's Club, and all the women of that organization, have every right to feel proud of having revived this event after a lapse of five years and to have carried it to so satisfying and great a conclusion with the loyal support of the people of the town as a whole.

WHICH GIRL WILL SIERRA MADRE CHOOSE Vote For Your Choice

On May 21st, our neighbor city of Monrovia is going to have a birthday celebration with a parade and games and a street dance 'n everything. They are voting for a queen of the celebration over there and Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce has been asked to arrange for a representative from this city to act as "Lady in Waiting" to the queen, ride on the float and take part in all the doing. Monday night at the meeting of the C. of C. a committee consisting of Mayor Robert Mitchell and Mrs. J. H. Wright was appointed to take charge of the matter and they announce the following:

There are too many pretty girls in this town for any mere committee to try to pick one—it is up to the whole town to do that, so candidates will be voted on. Each vote will cost five cents and the money collected will be applied to the cost of the costume the winner will wear. The voting place will be Pettitt's store in the Kersting block for it is open evenings and Sunday and so everyone will be given a chance to cast votes. A large placard with the candidates names will be placed on the wall and for every vote cast for a candidate a score will be marked in that column, so at any time it will be possible to know who is ahead in the race. No one but Mr. Pettitt, or one person designated by him in his absence, will be allowed to place any scores on this card, but the person voting can see it done. You can vote just as many times as you have nickels to spare. The contest will close Saturday night, May 14th at 10 P. M. absolutely. No votes accepted after that. You can enter any name you wish in the contest by paying for a vote. So far the names entered are: Hilda Barrett, Dolores Christie, Betty McRoberts, Betty Mueller, Harriet Sperry, Betty Shaw and Louise Pierson.

Get busy boys and rustle votes for your favorite girl—a fair field and no favor. Who will she be? —C

Mother's Day Sunday, May 8

Just before he left by special train to visit his dying mother, President McKinley sent this telegram:

"Tell Mother I'll be there."

Charles Fillmore of Indianapolis read this message and gained the inspiration for his world-famous hymn:

"Tell Mother I'll be there."

Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia founded Mother's Day in 1905, for world-wide observance of the love and gratitude we all owe to "Mother."

Go to the church of your choice on Sunday, May 8.

WELL KNOWN WELFARE WORKERS GUESTS HERE

The Reverend and Mrs. C. C. Ward of New York City are guests of Mrs. A. J. Rust. The Wards are well known welfare workers in the east. For seven years they have conducted three homes for friendless and homeless young people of both sexes, between the ages of 12 and 21. These unfortunate young girls and boys are befriended and given a chance in life. Mrs. Ward has mothered over 700 boys as though they were her own, and their own home has been a refuge for these young people, having the companionship of the Ward's three children.

They have been in California a month in interest of a project to establish similar homes throughout the United States. Their appeals for assistance in this splendid work have met with enthusiastic response.

An informal meeting of friends and neighbors interested in this work was held at the home of Mrs. Rust, Thursday evening. Reverend and Mrs. Ward leave for New York Tuesday.

ARCADIA WANTS TO LAY PIPE LINE

A petition was received last night at the meeting of the city council Arcadia asking for permission to lay a water main along the North side of Live Oak avenue. The north side of the Avenue will be denied them but the south side has been offered and if they accept this proposition it is probable that they will surround the three hundred acres of the Baldwin estate that now joins Sierra Madre with water mains. Arcadia built a one and one-half million gallon reservoir in North east Sierra Madre last summer which is expected to supply the new pipe lines. It is thought that these acres will be sub-divided and that we will have some fine homes erected south of Live Oak avenue this summer.

The directors of the Southern California Edison Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock of the company, according to advices received by District Manager Fred Schwartz today. This is the 45th regular consecutive dividend on this stock. In line with other large utilities of the country, Edison Company has recently increased the dividend rate from 7 to 8 per cent.

On the theory that the people residing in the territory served are entitled to be partners with the company in this project, the company has recently been selling large amounts of stock and now numbers over 11,000 stockholders, by far the largest of whom are residents of Southern California and the San Joaquin Valley.

ALL OREGON PEOPLE
CALLED TO PICNIC

All who ever lived in Oregon are invited to a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, May 14th, 1921, in Sycamore Grove Park, Los Angeles. Come as early as you can and spend the day with friends. We will have county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program opening about two o'clock, but the main purpose will be to have a good time.

The Story of
Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXXIII.—OREGON

IT WAS the Spanish who laid claim to the discovery of our Pacific coast. In 1543 Ferrello possibly sailed as far North as the Oregon boundary. In 1579 Sir Francis Drake explored for England the coast considerably north of this. Other Spaniards made further explorations and Captain Cook, the English navigator, in 1783 landed at Nootka Sound and gave it its name. Thus both Spain and England laid claim to this region.

The American rights to this territory were based on the discovery of the Columbia river in 1792 by Captain Robert Gray, who sailed from Boston in the ship Columbia to open up fur trade. Many American fur traders followed and in 1811 John Jacob Astor, the head of the Pacific Fur company, established a settlement called Astoria at the mouth of the Columbia. The real opening of the Northwest was the result of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition.

By 1843 a decided flow of emigrants from the East traveled over the Oregon Trail from Kansas City to the Columbia river, and thus into Oregon. The trip over this route occupied about three months and the settlers generally traveled in large parties to withstand any possible attacks from Indians.

American settlers became so numerous that the United States actively laid claim to this region. Spain had been forced to withdraw any rights she may have had when Florida was ceded in 1819. This left England and America quarrelling over this section of the country. Final settlement, with definite boundaries between the United States and Canada, was made in 1846.

The Oregon territory was formed in 1848 and the State of Oregon was taken into the Union in 1859 with an area of 96,699 square miles.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
MEETING

The meeting of the C. of C. Monday night was well attended considering the general feeling of fatigue after the work of the week before in connection with the Flower Show, many of the members having helped with that production.

The committee appointed to take up the matter of Bailey Canyon Park with the City Trustees reported that the Trustees expressed themselves in favor of the project and promised their encouragement and moral support to any effort the C. of C. might make to carry it to a successful conclusion, but the City has no money available for park purposes. After discussion, which showed the organization was not willing to let the matter drop because the city is out of funds, a committee, consisting of Mr. Mitchell and Father Woodcutter, was appointed to take up the forming of a Park Association for the purpose of finding the cost of necessary improvement work before the Canyon can be thrown open to the public, and raising the money for the same. A plan will be worked out whereby the control of the Park remains under the city, through the appointment of a Park Commission endorsed by the Association.

The secretary reported that subscriptions for the special advertising fund, which has been fully explained previously, were not coming in as they should. Numerous requests for a cryptic matter relating to this city are coming into the office every day and the secretary has nothing to send and the secretary of the leading hotels in Detroit has asked to be sent a supply of folders which they would place in their lobby, a sample having been called to their attention. The secretary stated that there is no possibility of "properly bringing" this city to the attention of home-seekers unless an ample supply of printed matter is available. Every property owner should be interested in seeing that this advertising matter is obtained at the earliest possible moment. A fund of $600 will provide a year's supply at the present rate of calls, allowing four or five thousand folders a month in selected channels of distribution. After discussion a committee, consisting of J. N. Hawks, L. C. Brooks and J. F. Sadler, were appointed to assist the secretary in raising this fund.

A communication from the Monrovia Day Association was read inviting the Sierra Madre people to participate in the Birthday Celebration Monrovia is holding on Saturday, May 21st. A Queen is to be elected in Monrovia by popular vote and we are asked to send a "Lady in Waiting" to the queen as our representative. A committee composed of Mr. Mitchell and Mrs. Wright, the secretary, was appointed to take charge of this matter and in another column will be found a detailed plan for the election of our representative.

Mr. Loris V. Cady, Training Officer of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, the speaker for the evening, was then introduced by the chairman and gave a very interesting outline of the work of his board. He gave praise to Congress for the generous and far reaching benefit to the service men which was planned by the bill passed creating this board as well as the War Risk Insurance Bureau; but he also stated that the law was far from perfect and that in the work-out, with the immense volume of work handled many faults had been found and it was necessary to make decided changes. Bills now pending will make these changes and the work will then be much more satisfactory to all concerned. The three departments will be put under one head and there will be no more conflict of authority and no more neglect of cases which come partially under any one department and consequently are ignored by all in the present arrangement. He also asked that the sins of omission and commission of the War Risk Insurance and the Public Health Bureau be not chalked up against the Vocational Training Bureau. Mr. Cady who is an ex-service man, has been connected with this work for only six months and so spoke only for what he knew of the work in that period and he said the Los Angeles Board was doing splendid work admittedly the best anywhere in the country. This district, the twelfth, including California, Nevada and Arizona, is admitted to be the best and Los Angeles is classed the best local in the Twelfth District.

Mr. Cady stated that before a man could be given vocational training he must be able to prove four things: first his honorable discharge from the U. S. Service; second, a vocational ability—that is a disability which prevented him from earning his living in the work he was doing before he entered the service; third, that he had received this disability while in the service; fourth, that he was able to take training. Most of the difficulty arises from the fact that they were so anxious to get out that they insisted they were all right when brought before the examining officer, consequently no claim for disability appears on their papers though their present condition may be directly traced to their service. Also many hospital records were destroyed through accident or ignorance, and it means weeks of research work to establish a man's claim. He gave an illustration of one man who had flu and spent almost two years in a hospital in France, the records were misplaced and lost and he had nothing on which to base his claim. Finally he produced a series of letters he had written his mother while in these hospitals, the postmarks and stampings proved they were genuine and he couldn't possibly have written them with an eye to vocational training. The Bureau strains the law to the limit to avoid doing injustice but they have many hard nuts to crack. Ninety per cent of the cases in training do well and are worth all the expense and trouble; five per cent are the knackers and don't take advantage of the opportunity given them. The men in training are placed all over in the various schools and colleges and also in shops and factories; when their course is finished the bureau finds them a job. A single man gets $100 a month while training; with a dependent parent $130; with a wife, $135, and it is possible, if he has the sufficient number of dependents to obtain as high as $600 a year for tuition with an additional allowance of $150 for equipment which becomes the property of the man at the end of his training period. The length of training depends upon the case and a few months to four years. They try to place the man where he will be satisfied but often the claimant wants to undertake something for which he is hopelessly unfitted. One man almost forty with only a third grade grammar school education insisted upon taking a law course. He passed a high intelligence test and he was allowed to try it, but three weeks in the law college convinced him it was useless and he followed the advice of the training officer as to the course he did follow.

Mr. Cady offered to reply to any questions and quite a number were asked him. He stated in answer to these that the statements that thousands of disabled soldiers were without food and shelter in Los Angeles was grossly exaggerated. He said there were some cases of rank injustice where men were not receiving their compensation from the Insurance Bureau, but he said in many instances the men had flocked into Los Angeles on account of the climate without proper means to carry them along. Also there were many unemployed ex-soldiers, just as there were many unemployed who were not ex-soldiers as a result of the industrial depression. He approved of the move to raise money to provide a home for disabled men in L. A. because he said no law could be made to properly care for all cases, however generous the government might wish to be and individual effort was always needed to supplement the governmental action.

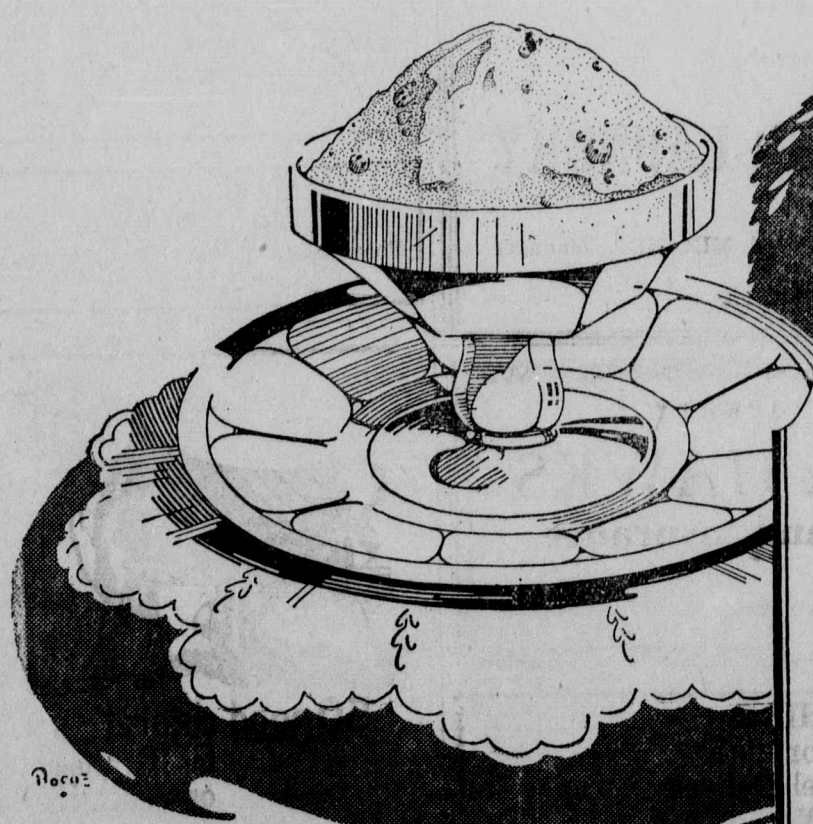

The Chamber gave Mr. Cady a vote of thanks and its regrettable that more members did not hear his talk, they missed something quite worth while. If the attendance warrants it is planned to have a speaker at each meeting to talk on some subject of general interest and it is hoped the members will co-operate by coming to the meetings.—C.

BATH HOUSE WILL OPEN MAY 18

C. E. House is building a new bath house near the pool in Sierra Madre Canyon and it will be ready for use May 18th. The pool has been rebuilt and has been filled. The canyon people are looking forward to a big business this summer.

DINNER AND THEATER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brooks, Misses Williams, Mueller and McRoberts and Mrs. Victor Hill, Herold Yerxa and Ford Sadler enjoyed a dinner at Frank's Tavern in Los Angeles, last evening and later attended the Orpheum.

CHURCHILL RANCH SUB-DIVIDED

There was a tentative plan submitted to the city council last night for the sub-division of the Churchill ranch. This will afford better building facilities, better accommodations for those wanting to build and afford a chance to grow.

WATER MAINS ARE IN

Practically all of the ten and twelve inch discharging water mains from the pumps to the round reservoir on Mira Monte avenue have been laid. The cross streets are now being connected and it is hoped that we will be having the use of these mains in another week. This work has been progressing rapidly in view of the fact that many obstacles have been encountered and much extra work has been done.

Woman's Club

REGULAR MEETING

A very interesting program has been arranged for the social meeting on Monday, May 9, when our own Miss Gertrude Cook, whose pleasing voice has so often been enjoyed by Sierra Madre audiences, will again appear, rendering several most varied and attractive groups of songs. Alternating with Miss Cook's numbers, Miss Hope Knapp, also a well known and much loved artist, will give the musical artistic dances of her own creation. It is never fail to delight the members and the nominating committee will give a report, presenting the names of the candidates for the election, which will be held on May 10. The program follows:

Group Songs—Indian Love Lyrics.
Miss Gertrude Cook.
Nautch Dance—Miss Knapp.
Group Songs—Miss Cook.
Grecian Dance—Miss Knapp.
Group Songs—Selected, Miss Cook.
Fountain Dance—Miss Knapp.

The pretty club dance will be given on Friday evening, April 13th. The usual attractions will lend their charm toward the making of a good time. Are you going?

In Appreciation

Happy over the unprecedented success of the recent Flower Show, the Board of Directors of the Club, realizing that the attainment of success was due not only to the loyalty and cooperation of the members of the club, but to the citizens of the community as well wish to heartily thank each and every person who was in any way instrumental in bringing about such splendid results.

A Deed of Kindness

Early on Sunday morning several of the ladies of the club met at the club house and arranged a large number of beautiful bouquets from the cut flower contributions to the Flower Show. After sending a number of these to the Sierra Madre Hospital, to numberless shut-ins and to various churches, Pasadena Hospital was remembered with 27 bouquets and the Crocker Street Hospital for disabled soldiers was presented with 35, also the unsold candy and fruit left over from the booths. We feel that the citizens of Sierra Madre will be more than pleased at the thoughtful disposition of these contributions.

There must be no fires north of Grand View only between the hours of six and nine and then only when you have secured a permit from the Fire Agent.

There must be no burning below Grandview at any hour without a permit, and you must be very careful in burning vegetables and trash. It is suggested that all vegetable matter be buried as this is one of the requirements for sanitary public safety.

The recent hot weather has cooked the grass and it is with the view of being cautious that this warning is given. Heed it.

IT IS GOOD TO SEE THE CHIEF

Chief Earl Toppnig was down town yesterday morning after being confined to his home for several days on account of illness. It was good to see him. Sierra Madre could ill afford to do without Earl Topping. There is not a civic move, there is not a move for the betterment of Sierra Madre, there is not a charity or business venture that demands public sentiment and boosting that Mr. Topping does not come forth with his personal and financial support.

We need more like him.

RECEPTION TO RACERS

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brooks were guests at the Buford Doble home, 41 Place Los Angeles, Tuesday evening. The event was a farewell reception in honor of the drivers of the racing fraternity, the guest of honor being Jimmy Murphy. Other racers present were: Eddie Pullen and wife, Joe Thomas and wife, and Mrs. Eddie O'Donnell. There were 30 guests present and the general auto scheme of decorations were carried out through the evening's entertainment. The drivers of the racing cars left yesterday for Indianapolis, Indiana, where they will participate in the Decoration Day festivities on May 30.

SCHOOL WILL CLOSE JUNE 24

The Sierra Madre Schools will not close until June 24. There has been some misunderstanding as to contracts which will keep the scholars and teachers busy until the above date.

The school this year has been a very successful one from every point of view. Sierra Madre is especially fortunate in having such a man as Mr. Reynolds at the head of its educational institution. He has had several years experience in the juvenile work. He is a personal friend of Judge Ben C. Lindsey of Denver, and he has the happy ability of looking at issues from the scholar's point of view.

Prof. Reynolds generally spends his vacation in the Yosemite, as a manager of one of the camps. He has had many years experience in this work and this year will again see him on the job. The late dismissal of the school will interfere considerably, but he hopes to get on the job on schedule time. We hope the summer's vacation will give him his needed rest and find him with us again this fall.

Sierra Madre and the public schools cannot part with Prof. Reynolds. We need him.

"I haven't yet told you about the supper that the girl and the boy who were looking for adventures had when they visited Mrs. Gnome."

"They were a very queer couple and no relation to the other gnomes. Mr. Gnome was small because he was so lazy and Mrs. Gnome was very tall and thin."

"I'm partly to blame," Mr. Gnome told the boy and girl, "and so is she. We never started right and now whenever we think we may try to get back to the right road I'm too lazy and too idle to care to go on where the traveling is hard."

"You see, Mrs. Gnome began by spoiling me. And I began by letting myself become absolutely idle. We should have started fairly, each of us helping the other. But it has been all one-sided instead."

"So I've grown smaller and smaller and she has grown taller and taller. She hasn't grown beautiful, as you might think, because of her selfishness; no, on the contrary, she is quite a sight. That is because she allowed me to grow small, allowed me to become spoilt."

"She, from the first, caught the fish from the nearby brook, and captured the chickens, and gathered the vegetables from the farm she started off the edge of the woods. Then she fried the fish and roasted the chickens and boiled the vegetables."

"Was that the wrong thing to do to them?" asked the boy.

"No," said Mr. Gnome, "but she should have seen to it that I went after the fish, and that I plowed the farm, and that I fed the chickens. Then she could look after the house."

"Just then Mrs. Gnome put out an enormous tablecloth which she had in her linen chest in the trunk of a tree. After that she put the food on plates of leaves and poured clear water from a spring into shell-like cups."

"Pray eat," she said.

"But won't you eat too?" asked the girl.

"And won't you talk to us?"

"Talk to you," said Mrs. Gnome. "I haven't time. It is Mr. Gnome who can stop and talk. It's my fault, as he says. I look after the meals and I catch the fish. I even bait the hook myself! When it rains I cover him with a blanket of warm leaves and over his head I hold an umbrella I have made of tondstools."

"He never has to do anything. It's my fault, as I said before. I have spoilt him, spoilt him so he never grew. But what can I do about it now; alas! alas! It is too late."

"And at that moment Mrs. Gnome again began to cry and yet Mr. Gnome smiled and didn't seem to be in the least upset because of Mrs. Gnome's tears."

"You want it explained to you, I suppose," he said, "why I do not feel sad over the sight of Mrs. Gnome's tears. It is all because I'm so small in every way. I have little or no sympathy. I have little or no kindness, I have little or no mind left for thinking good thoughts. There was a time when I dreamed of being great, but I became too easily spoilt."

"I wasn't strong enough to grow. I shrunk and shrunk in my body, my mind—everything! And it all came from being too lazy and too fond of myself."

"But saying that reminds me of the journey you must take. I can tell you this much about it. You must leave me, of course, leave me here on my soft bed of moss where I am watched over by my hard-working wife, whose hard work I cannot really appreciate."

"I will stay here and slowly shrink until there is nothing left of me at all. There will be, as folks would say, 'nothing to me.'"

"So I bid you a farewell. Start off, be ready to take a long, long journey. At the end of it you will arrive at the House of Secrets, a house with many rooms. There you will find the answer to every question you ask."

"But how will we know the way?" asked the boy.

"All along the way there will be creatures who will direct you," said the Gnome. "Some of them will try to mislead you, but if you do not fear adventures you will always find the right road again. That is all I can tell you. Good-bye."

"So they left the little creature who never grew any larger because he always had to live in comfort and lie on a mossy bed. Nor did they see his wife who spoilt him and kept him from amounting to something. And they went on for yet more adventures."

CLUB NEWS

who would be delighted to be members of an organization stands for what the Woman's Club does, is aiming to increase its membership by getting each member to contribute one to present the name of one new applicant. This must be done quickly in order new members may be present opening meeting, and Mrs. E. Rhodes, chairman of the membership committee, urges that all applications be made before October 5th. The club will be glad to accept any new members necessary. Phone 354.

Why the year of many anti-climaxes, the Woman's Club is planning the opening social function season with a dinner which is scheduled for Friday, October 14, at the club.

The affair is being given at the request of many who are impatiently waiting for the renewal of the social season which always follows the summer months. It is planned to make this a really important affair, one of the star features of which will be a number of demonstrations of the very latest styles in the fox trot and the ritz waltz, which will be given by the professional assistants of Madame Dowdelle of the Egan School of Los Angeles. Mrs. W. E. Walker, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, will have the dinner in charge, and reservations may be made with Mrs. Spencer Howard, Black 79, up to Tuesday, October 11th.

Cleveland Woman Is Charmed with City

Miss Marian Lalonde of Cleveland, Ohio, came here to visit her friend, Mrs. Charles Davis, of West Alameda, two or three weeks ago, and has become so enamored of Sierra Madre that she wishes to remain here permanently.

Miss Lalonde is a graduate nurse, having taken her training in St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland, and had considerable experience in settlement work in that city. During the war she was stationed at the naval service and was stationed at Hampton Roads, Virginia, in the naval hospital there.

She says she has never seen any place that would compare with this foothill city for beauty and attractiveness.

Marshal Tells Great Fish Story

Marshal Udell has returned from his two weeks vacation and he says he is rested almost enough to be ready for the multifarious complaints which come to his desk in the City Hall. At any rate, he looks brown and good natured, but it might not be advisable for any aspiring crook to presume on the latter expression.

He wouldn't tell where he was going before he started, but now he coyly announces that he was at the Pala Indian Reservation near San Diego, and with that as headquarters hunted and fished over the surrounding country. He tried to sidestep the question as to the number of deer he shot, but when the reporter pinned him down he sorrowfully admitted that they were represented by zero. He also added the information that shortly after his party came into camp empty handed, some Indians went out for venison and returned with four. But of course that was luck—skill doesn't enter into the story at all.

However, the good fishing made up for the poor hunting. He waxed very enthusiastic over the account of the big fellows he caught, and, probably encouraged by the confiding and interested look on the face of the reporter (that trusting expression is one of the best things the reporter does), he told some wild ones. Egged on by the Fire Chief, he recited epics of huge ones, with horns mind you, and slippery, my, but those fish were slippery! The reporter asked if they were as slippery as some mutual acquaintances, and the Marshal looked pained, he felt proper respect was not being shown to his creative skill. One detail upon which he dwelt with gusto was the appetite displayed by this particular brand of fish for hooks. It seems that they come right up to the edge of the water and beg for hooks, they love 'em so.

The Indians of the three reservations in that vicinity, the Pala, Pala-Mar and Pinen, were having a sort of convention while the Marshal was camping there, but none of the white men attended the meetings or dances, as the Indians did not seem particularly desirous of their company.

Bill McCarty, who was one of the party, was given the nickname of "Leap Frog" by one of the Indians. When asked what name the childlike red men had applied to him, the Marshal had one of those lapses of memory that are so often noticed in witnesses on the stand. Even rigid cross-examination failed to elicit any information on this point.

The ideal finish for walls and ceilings is Acme Quality No-Lustre Finish. An artistic, sanitary, lustreless oil paint made especially for walls and ceilings. Has the soft, velvety beauty of a fresco or kalsomine but the cleanliness and durability of an enamel.

ACME QUALITY

is economical because its durability renders frequent redecoration unnecessary. It can be applied over plaster, wall board, wood or any surface upon which paint is ordinarily used. Color sample cards at our store for the asking.

Local Masons Interested In Big Pageant

TO ATTEND CONCLAVE

Knights Templar Commandery Preparing Magnificent Spectacle

Sierra Madre men who belong to the Knights Templar are very busy these days with preparations for a pageant which is to be given under the auspices of the Pasadena Commandery, on the evening of October 20th at tournament park. Milton Stenberger and Louis Brooks, who belong to the unit team of thirty men which is to go to New Orleans next April at the time of the triennial Conclave, are also to take part in the pageant.

The pageant, entitled "The Crusaders," though presented through the efforts of nearly all the commanderies of this part of the state, is far from being a fraternity or organization affair, although in its earlier aspects it will show the valorous deeds of the Christian adventurers of the Middle Ages from whom the order of Knights Templar directly sprung. "The Crusaders," its backers assert, will be far greater in appeal and more universal. Its educational and religious aspects have attracted to it commendation from school and pulpit.

Ancient Armor To Be Used

"The Crusaders" consists of a prologue, eight episodes and an epilogue. It is written and directed by Miss Sybil Jones of Pasadena, author of several noteworthy pageants. Egbert Letty, a noted authority on pageant art and costume, is art director. More than $50,000 worth of ancient armor and arms, now the property of various Los Angeles and Pasadena Masonic organizations, is to be utilized in the production, and several thousand dollars is being spent for costumes.

In time it reaches from the vow of Peter the Hermit, in 1095, that he would preach the Crusades, down to the capture of the Holy City of Jerusalem by General Allenby and his troops in 1917. Every scene is carefully costumed with regard to historical accuracy, and the result will be some of the most lavish pageant sets seen in modern times, for the period is one not only historically interesting but pictorially beautiful.

Call To Crusades

From the vision of Peter the Hermit of the abuses heaped on the Christians by the Moslems in Jerusalem, the scene shifts to Peter, mounted on an ass, placing a cross about Europe, from nations to drive the Muslims from Jerusalem. Godfrey of Bouillon vows to help him. Godfrey, at the conclusion of the successful First Crusade is shown refusing to be King of Jerusalem, declining "to wear a crown of gold where the Savior wore a crown of thorns."

Baldwin II, King of Jerusalem, who had no such scruples as Godfrey, is shown in an impressive episode and the oriental splendor of the court which Richard the Lion Hearted set up and the Knights Templar arousing Richard from his lethargy are presented in a gorgeous scene. From this worldly glory the spectator is transported to later times when only the Grand Master of the Temple and fifty-two Knights are left as defenders of the Holy Land and of their faith.

The date of this episode is 1187, and from it there is a lapse of almost six centuries, to Jerusalem Caladula, covered by General Allenby. Diantus; more than 400 Knights Templar; Fushia; Mr. Seman, pretty girls, are to appear Galliard; the pageant. Dr. Leslie E. Learn; Mrs. Long, rector of All Saints Episcopal Mignonne; church of Pasadena, is to appear Marguerite; the Hermit, and other parts are Nasturtium; be taken by many of the most Berger; 2nd, prominent men of the Crown City. In Petunias; large of the pageant for the Pasadena; a Knights Templars is a comchell. Shasta; composed of E. L. Pauley, advanced tickets can be obtained either Milton Stenberger or is Brooks. These tickets are exchangeable for reserved seats three before the general sale opens. et, the purchaser is assured of a reserved seat and will not have in the grand rush for seats on the general sale opens.

Plans To Exploit Winter Sports Explained To Commercial Secretaries

The Chamber of Commerce Secretary, Mrs. Wright, attended the monthly meeting of the Commercial Secretaries Association of Southern California last Saturday at Big Bear, and learned from representatives of the interests back of the project of the plan to make the Rim of the World resorts into a winter playground for tourists as well as a summer resort.

The San Bernardino and Redlands Chambers of Commerce were the hosts of the occasion, ably assisted by the Big Bear Valley Chamber of Commerce and Max Green, "Auto Bus King," who provided the means of transportation over the more than one hundred miles of mountain highways.

At Pine Crest, where the party stopped for lunch and were royally entertained by Dr. Baylis, the manager, the announcement was made that the Morgan Adams interests of Los Angeles had obtained control of Little Bear Lake and a large tract of land adjacent and were planning development work running into the millions.

Huge Hotel Planned

Judge Rex Goodshell, president of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, who made the announcement, had the details direct from Mr. Adams. The company is planning the erection of a 250-room concrete and fireproof hotel, which they claim will be the largest mountain resort hotel in California, at an approximate cost of $1,000,000. This building is to be modern and up-to-date in every particular of furnishing, lighting and heating, and is to have a complete sewer system, the first of its kind in any mountain resort.

In addition, from twenty to thirty rustic cabins will be built in the immediate vicinity of the hotel. Tennis courts, golf links and other attractions will be prepared, and special attention is to be given to the development of winter sports. The lake will in the future be known as Arrowhead Lake.

At Big Bear, a clubhouse of sixty rooms, costing in the neighborhood of $150,000 is soon to be started by the Big Bear Valley Country Club. The members of this club are being drawn from all the communities in Southern California from among those who care for the mountains and the sports that can be found there.

Road Open All Winter

The sixty or more resorts on the shores of Big Bear are all interested in these projects and in the plan to keep the road into the mountain open all winter. This plan is of interest to this city as well as to other communities in this section of the states, as it will mean that we can offer to the winter tourist easy access to a spot where he can get a fling at winter sports within a few hours' ride of this city. This is also an inducement to permanent settlers here who may occasionally wish for some of the old home experiences without the expense and fatigue of a long journey to reach them.

Change in P.E. Mayor Visits Schedule Not Popular

Night Passengers Strongly Opposed To Removal of Through Car Service

The schedule proposed by the Pacific Electric which was given in last week's News, has not met with much support, according to Mr. Smith, general passenger agent for the railroad. When he stated that not a single passenger on the night cars had approved of the change suggested, which would have required them to travel by way of Pasadena after six o'clock. He stated that they received a large number of signed slips from the passengers and that the majority of those sent in by passengers on the day cars approved of the change. These passengers would not be the ones most affected, however.

He volunteered the information that he was positive the engineering department of the Railroad Commission would order some change in the night service, and he thought there was strong probability that the car leaving Los Angeles at 7 p. m. would be added. It seemed to him that would be the best solution of the problem for the present and would go the farthest toward satisfying the various people who now have cause for complaint about the night service.

The survey made by the engineers showed that travel later than 7 was not heavy enough to pay for hourly service for the balance of the night, but the railroad officials say they are desirous of giving the best service they can, taking into consideration the earnings of this branch of the road.

The suggestion has been made by men who have had practical experience in railroading that by changing by a few minutes the running time of the regular car which makes the night runs, a more convenient schedule for passengers would result. Also it has been suggested that if the seven o'clock car is added, by running one car up here from Pasadena between 9 and 11, with the cars we now have, it would be practically an hourly service.

The great majority of complaints, however, have to do with the two-hour wait between 6 and 8 o'clock in the evening, and many have expressed themselves as being satisfied if the 7 o'clock car of the engineers' schedule was principal aim of the Chamber of Commerce when the move was inaugurated to better the service some time ago.

Many people have felt that nothing was being accomplished because they saw no concrete results, but matters of this sort which go before the Railroad Commission take considerable time, for, as one of the engineers explained to the committee, Sierra Madre is only one of the many towns throughout the state asking for railroad changes of some sort, and the commission was making a complete survey of the Pacific Electric system before ordering any changes whatever.

Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce have interviewed the engineers of both the commission and the railroad several times, and the situation has been fully put before them.

City Attorneys Association Inspects Los Angeles Hydro-Electric Project

On Monday Mayor Mitchell accompanied the delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the League of California Municipalities on their trip to San Francisco Canyon to inspect the hydro-electric power plants of Los Angeles city. The City Attorney's Association of Southern California were the hosts for this trip and provided the autos and an appetizing barbecue lunch, which was served about 5 o'clock.

Mr. Mitchell said it was a most interesting and instructive trip. He had often read descriptions of the power plants, but that actually seeing them gave him so much greater comprehension of what they are and what they mean in the development of the city.

Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles made an interesting speech, telling of the ambitions of the city along the line of municipal ownership and development of resources and expressing his gratification that the representatives of over a hundred California cities should have the opportunity of seeing for themselves what the finished hydro-electric projects of the city were.

The city engineers explained the technical details of the plants and gave an outline of the further development which is possible with this canyon, and also explained the needs of the city for additional sources of power to supply the ever growing demands of the manufacturing interests which are steadily increasing in number.

The convention opened formally on Tuesday in Santa Monica's new municipal auditorium and will close this afternoon. All branches of municipal affairs have been taken up by the convention.

Accident to School Boy Disrupts Ball Nine

Ralph Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of West Alegria Street, broke his right wrist while cranking a Ford car Sunday. Both bones were fractured, according to Dr. Groth, who was called in on the case.

There is weeping and wailing, and gnashing of teeth among the members of the ball team of the grammar school, for not only is Ralph popular with his schoolmates and therefore they feel sorry for his misfortune, but he is the catcher for the nine, and crippling him is practically crippling the team.

So gloom is spread around in thick chunks and just at present nobody knows how or by what the yawning gap is going to be filled. Six weeks at the best before he can stand behind the plate and yell for a fast one. It has been said that the need always calls forth the man, and perhaps this tragedy will be the means of bringing to light some unsuspected talent in some other boy at the school, and the day will be saved.

whereas Dr. Goodenow was the surgeon who did the repair and who has been in charge of the case.

Widely Known Musician Opens Studio Here

Music lovers of Sierra Madre will be interested to know that Mr. Hague Kinsey, distinguished composer and teacher of national reputation, has consented to open a studio at the residence of Mrs. Robert Mitchell on West Alegria Street, for the convenience of his pupils in this city.

Mr. Kinsey is a "diplome" of Leipzig Conservatory, and since coming to America has received many honors. He was awarded the gold medal for composition in 1917 by the American Guild of Organists and appointed member of the editorial faculty of the National Academy of Music, New York. He is also winner of the prize offered by the Baton Club of Chicago for the best choral anthem.

At present Mr. Kinsey is the organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Long Beach, Cal. He teaches the Progressive Series of Piano Lessons, and anyone wishing to learn more of his plans for work here may call on Mrs. Robert Mitchell.

Another Repair Shop To Open Here Soon

Norman Morrison has the grading finished and the pit dug on the lot west of the Blinn Lumber Company on East Montecito Street, where he intends to put up an auto repair shop and service station.

Norman has been working for the Sierra Madre Garage for a long time and has many friends among the automobile owners of the city. The number of machines owned here is constantly on the increase and he feels that there will be plenty of work for him as well as the two other garages which are now running.

He says that at present a great deal of auto work is being taken to Pasadena and Los Angeles which might as well be handled here, and that as the city grows the work bound to increase, so that still more shops will be opened. He hopes to have his place ready for business in a short time.

Feels Situation Is Much Improved

City Health Officer Jackson states that the diphtheria situation is at present under control and that if no new cases develop within the next two weeks he will feel reasonably confident that the danger of an epidemic is over for the present. There is so much of this disease prevalent throughout the county, however, that it will be necessary to watch all children closely for some time to come.

He repeats the warning to parents to keep any child that is complaining of illness, however slight it may seem to be, at home until a diagnosis is made.

Trustees Order Four Trees Removed

At the Trustees meeting last night Joseph Belohavek again appeared with a request that the four pepper trees on the Baldwin frontage of his new garage site be removed. After a thorough discussion of the matter, the order was given to remove the trees.

The Trustees were influenced to give this order because it was shown that two of the trees would block the driveway into the garage and the other two are of such shape and position that they would be of damage to the building which comes to the property line. If pruned back sufficiently to remove this damage, the trees would be ruined.

A permit was given for the erection of a temporary produce stand on the lot east of the new garage. Mr. Kersting is shortly to build a two-story business block on a portion of this property, and the lessees wish to run a market in temporary quarters until their permanent store is ready. The permit is for four months.

Much Activity Shown In Lot Selling During Month

The real estate agents say that there seem to be fashions in real estate as well as clothes. Just at present the demand is all for lots, whereas a few months ago houses were the leaders in selling. Undoubtedly this is due to the decrease in building costs.

Since the first of September a number of lots have changed hands and in the majority of cases the new owners have expressed the determination to build shortly. Some rather large deals are under way, but at the moment have not progressed to the point where the announcements can be made.

A gracious spirit of revival has been in evidence for some little time. Every Sunday evening for some weeks men and women have been making the great decision for Christ. Thus it is seen that without resort to any modern methods the earnest strong presentation of the Gospel of Christ is still the power of God for the salvation of souls.

A wonderful meeting was experienced of which there were those who enced again last Sunday night at the made confession of faith in Christ.

Dr. Rawlings preached the eighth sermon of the series on the subject of the holy Spirit on Sunday morning and an ever deepening interest in this wonderful unfolding of scripture is evidenced by the numbers attending.

The work of completing the beautiful stone temple goes steadily on. The roof is in preparation for the dome is now in course of erection.

Of a truth Bethany church is enjoying the favors and blessing of God in marked degree. On Sunday morning next the pastor continues the series of sermons on the Holy Spirit and all who value the good old gospel in its purity and power are invited to morning and evening meetings.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
COPYRIGHT BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
MOLLYMAUKS.

“I think,” said daddy, “that I have told you a story of mollymauks once before.”

“Yes,” said Nancy, “and you said that they were large birds known also as albatrosses.”

“You said albatrosses were their real names, didn't you?”

“Yes,” said daddy, “that's right. They're birds, and mollymauks is the family name given to all the smaller families of albatrosses. In fact, it is the name given to all albatrosses which are not so large as the great wandering albatross known as the ‘goney.’”

“There are five kinds of mollymauks in the Southern waters. Their family names are the Black-Browed Albatross family, the Yellow-Nosed Albatross family and yet another family of albatrosses very much like these who are also known as the Yellow-Nosed Albatrosses and yet who are a little different from these cousins.”

“There are two great families of the Sooty Albatrosses also.”

“The Albatrosses were talking.”

“We're the ones seen most often,” said Mr. Black-Browed Albatross.

“That's so,” the Sooty Albatross said, “but we're the most interesting and the most beautiful. We do not mean to be conceited when any of us admit that, but it's a fact and we state it as a fact, that's all.

“Well, didn't we have a time following the boat which was traveling along these waters?”

“Ah, yes,” Mr. Black-Browed Albatross said, “We were fed such good things. And we let the people on the boat see us and hear our voices and know what we were like because they were friendly with us and gave us food.”

“It wasn't just because they gave us food that we were so friendly but anyone knows that when a creature is invited for a meal it means they're liked and thought well of, and that their company is desired.”

“So it was nice that we should be asked to eat. They threw the food down to us and then what fun we had going up to the ship and getting it!”

“How tame we became,” the Sooty Albatross said, “Some of us went along with the ship for a long distance. We used to leave the ship and its people from time to time and they didn't know whether we had left for good or not, but back again we would come and with us we'd bring our best manners.”

“We knew they wanted to see us and know us better and we'd talk and chatter and show off and perform our regular tricks and all.”

“We'd rise from the water and when we did so we'd beat our wings together and patter with our feet so we could get a good start to rise from the sea and fly off.”

“The Yellow-Nosed family would come along, too. But they were more apt to join us when we were taking a great fly.”

“The people liked seeing us and they said we were like airplanes known as mollymauks.”

“They enjoyed seeing us with our heads forward looking for food. They liked to see how we managed our own airplanes—ourselves.”

“They liked to see the wonderful way we could fly.”

“They admired our great wings and our long beaks and our funny faces and our handsome white bodies. They said they liked to see our tricks of rising from the water and of getting down to the water and of going so high in the sky that they couldn't see us.”

“And they liked our understanding of sailing and flying and of the ways we had discovered to be the best and cleverest ways of getting along through the air.”

“And they were kind to us, so we showed them all we could do.”

“And you, of all the albatrosses,” said the Black-Browed Albatross, “fly more beautifully and more gracefully than any of us.”

“Yes, you're a beautiful bird with your soft coloring and white body and your wonderful gracefulness.”

“So,” said daddy, “they showed what they could do for the people who were traveling in those distant Southern waters and they showed that no airplanes are as beautiful or graceful or perfectly understood and managed as the private airplanes of the Mollymauk or Albatross families!”
